REGISTRATION COSTS
Full registration ($100 per person, $125 after Sept. 4) includes program materials, Tuesday’s buffet reception, and refreshments. Daily registration does not include the Tuesday buffet. Registration is free for full-time students and faculty of CUS schools and the LCMS seminaries, though they must pre-register their attendance. Full-time students from other institutions can register at $35 per person. Meals can be purchased by all.

Registration deadline is Sept. 4, 2015. Please do not mail your registration after this date. Only fax, phone, online, or walk-in registration will be accepted after Sept. 4. Walk-in registrations will not include the Tuesday buffet reception, and the availability of meal tickets cannot be guaranteed.

CANCELLATION POLICY
A full refund, less a $25 administration charge, and less any meal tickets purchased, is made when a written or emailed cancellation is provided. No refunds after Sept. 4.

CONTINUING EDUCATION UNIT (CEU)
CEU is available for those attending the Symposium. The CEU fee is $10 per certificate (see registration form).

MEALS

MEMORY. STORY. IDENTITY. FAITH.

The human ability to remember is central to personal and communal identity, the formation of shared narratives, the possibility of reconciliation, and our capacity to hope. The stories we tell as a community become our memories and identity as members of that community. What role does brain development and functioning play in memory formation, functioning, and recall? The 2015 Theological Symposium will engage and explore what we are learning about memory and its central role in the life of faith, how it cultivates community, and its implications for preaching, pastoral care, and congregational ministry, through a dialogue between scientists and theologians.

SYMPOSIUM INTRODUCTION
Why Memory Is Always More Important Than We Think
Dr. Joel Okamoto

PLENARIES
Brain, Memory, and Mind: The Neural Structures That Allow Us to Remember
Dr. Steve Joordens

You Are What You Remember:
How Our Memories Define Who We Are and Support Our Effective Functioning
Dr. Steve Joordens

Remembering With Stories: The Role of Narrative in Personal and Collective Memory
Dr. Charlotte Linde
